

The sum of function and design SysTech* drawer system from Hettich

The high-quality and flexible SysTech drawer system is bringing more and more of a homely feel to the office environment. The system combines tried and proven functions with a new design style that also continues trends into furniture interiors.

The trend towards more homeliness in the office is now being reinforced by Hettich's new SysTech drawer system that perfectly complements the Systema Top 2000 range. SysTech epitomises the union of design and functional practicality because the clean lines of the steel side profile also score in meeting the demand for solutions that optimise the use of office space.

Available either in silver or black and a choice of depths, the drawer side profile can also be used with the optional DesignSide element that comes in two different heights. This makes it possible to continue design trends through to the inside of furniture. DesignSide itself also combines visual and practical features: on the visual side, it can be used for setting product lines apart, and in terms of function, DesignSide is predestined for classic suspension filing. Numerous interior organisers for familiar office applications can be combined in any chosen way.

SysTech uses the tried and tested Quadro Duplex runner. In terms of design, runner and Stop Control locking system have stayed exactly the same. Customers previously using filing cradles or wide drawers can easily switch to SysTech. As a further benefit,
